

Patty Enrado

"When Mexicans and
Filipinos Join Together: The Farmworker
Movement and Unity
in the Making"

Wednesday, March 29
12 – 1 p.m.
(doors open at 11:45 a.m.)
Franklin Lobby 1

Questions about this event? Contact
Benjamin.Tsai@ucop.edu or
Juliann.Martinez@ucop.edu

Light refreshments will be served.

Belinda Veja will talk with author Patty Enrado about her novel, "A Village in the Fields" about Filipino-American farmworkers in the Central Valley. Enrado's first book was shortlisted for the William Saroyan International Prize for Writing in 2016.

Enrado was born in Los Angeles and raised in Terra Bella, California, a small town in the Central Valley. She has a bachelor's degree in English from UC Davis and a master's degree from Syracuse University's creative writing program.